A VETERAN HONORED.

Captain John R. Bartlett Succeeds Rear Admiral Erben.

He Is Now President of the Auxiliary Naval Board, with Headquarters at Washington—His Service in the Navy.

Capt. John R. Bartlett, United States navy, who was detailed a few weeks ago to succeed Rear Admiral Henry Erben as president of the auxiliary naval board, with headquarters at Washington, is an officer who is popular in the entire navy, and has seen more than the average ten service of line officers. During his entire service on the active list for 39 years he has seen duty in almost every branch of the navy. He was born in New York in 1837, and was appointed a midshipman from Rhode Island on November 21, 1855, and was sent to the naval academy at once. He remained there until the beginning of the civil war, and then, upon his own application, got duty on the steam warship Mississippi, West Gulf blockading squadron. About a year later he was transferred to the Brooklyn, and was at the bombardment and passage of Forts Jackson and St. Philip, Chalmette batteries and the capture of New Orleans. He was also in the attack on Vicksburg, in June, 1863.

On September 2, 1863, he was promoted to ensign, and on February 28, 1864, was commissioned as lieutenant, when he was ordered to the steam warship Susquehanna in the North Atlantic blockading squadron. On this vessel he was at the bombardment of Fort Fisher, in December, 1864, and was one of the leaders of the stumbling party of the capture of that fort in January, 1865, when his conduct received favorable comment. He was promoted to lieutenant commander on July 25, 1866, and continued on sea duty until early in 1870, when he was ordered to the naval academy as one of the instructors. In 1873 he went on a special cruise on the frigate Sabine, after which he was ordered to the Nicaragua and Honduras surveying expedition, upon which he served nearly two years. Following this he was detailed to special duty in the ordnance department, Boston, Mass.; hydrographic office, Washington, and bureau of equipment at Washington. Later he was in charge of the hydrographic bureau from 1883 to 1886; commanded the coast survey steamer Blake for nearly three years—from 1879 to 1882; commanded the Marion from April, 1881, to December, 1883, and was on special duty from then until May, 1886, when he was ordered to the command of the Atlantic. His promotion to commander was on April 21, 1877, and to captain July 1, 1886. He was put on the retired list on July 18, 1897. In general appearance and carriage he resembles Admirals Ramsey and Dewey, and is one who may be classed as a "born military man and leader."

Tests with Liquid Hydrogen.

Prof. Dewar succeeded in liquefying hydrogen at the Royal institution in London on May 10 last. He produced half a wineglassful of the liquid, the boiling point of which was found to be about 400 degrees Fahrenheit below zero. When a tube, closed at the lower end, was dipped into the liquid hydrogen it was also instantaneously filled with solid air as quickly were the oxygen and nitrogen of the atmosphere frozen by the fearful cold. Helium, which, like hydrogen, has hitherto resisted efforts to liquefy it, was also liquefied by Prof. Dewar on the same day, the liquid hydrogen being employed on an agent in the process. The boiling point of helium is near that of hydrogen.

Losses to Coming Tenement.

The devotees of the wheel will be interested to see of the latest fads in bicycle clothing. They are made of khaki hair cloth, and the dye is so contrived in such a clever way that the effect of spikes and lacings is given. Even to a close observer it is difficult to distinguish them from the regulation boot, and cyclists welcome the new innovation as a relief from the warmth and heaviness of the strange cycle boot coverings.

World's Largest Gunmaker.

The largest gunmaker in the world is at East Greenwich. When full it contains 12,000,000 cubic feet of gas. It weighs 2,000 tons, and is 140 feet high. 300 feet in diameter, requires 1,200 tons of coal to fill it with gas, and cost nearly $500,000.

General Shafter called the departure of a vessel yesterday afternoon of the steamer Olivette with 200 sick on board. She will go to Fort Monroe.

Will Survive an Opera Bouffe.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—The end of the war has been announced between the United States and Spain.

"All letters and packages for Spain will be sent to France at present," said Postmaster General Smith yesterday. "From France they will be sent to their destination. Before the war practically all the Spanish mails were distributed from France. Only a small portion of the business went to Spain direct.

"Our peace is fairly settled and signed and our diplomatic relations are resumed with Admiral Cervera. France will act as the medium for mail communications between us. All the mails, however, will be sent out of the country and received and dispersed here as usual and unmolested."

Don Carlos Opposes a Rising.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—A special dispatch from Lucerne, Switzerland, says the following inspired statement has been made there:

"Notwithstanding his disapproval of the course the government at Madrid is taking, Don Carlos maintains his firm intention to discourage any actual rising in Spain and is using all his influence to quell insurrectionary tendencies and attempted uprisings among and on the part of his followers."

Schwan's Column Attacked.

PONCE, Porto Rico, Aug. 14.—General Schwan's column was attacked Sunday between Mayaguez and Lares. As the Eleventh infantry, under Colonel Burke was descending the valley of the Rio Grande they were fired upon from a hillside by a force of 1,500 Spaniards who were retreating toward the north. The fire was returned, and the Spaniards were repulsed with considerable loss.

Colonel Hein, the commander of the Mayaguez district, was wounded and was afterward overtaken in a wayside cottage. He was attended by two sergeants, who surrendered.

The Americans suffered no loss. The artillery and cavalry were not engaged.

General Schwan had not received news of the signing of the protocol when the action occurred, but it arrived Sunday afternoon.

The reports from General Miles are meager.

Passengers Arrive to Be Disbanded.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, Aug. 15.—A secret meeting was held last night at the palace between the commanding officers of the American army and the Cuban leaders.

The strictest secrecy was maintained, but it can be said with good authority that General Garcia was present. The meeting lasted an hour and a half.

The information obtained is to the effect that the Cuban situation was thoroughly reviewed, and that it was resolved to disband the Cuban army and that the United States should pay the men off.

This involves the expenditure of $3,000,000, but as it means independence to the country of the island, which is entirely controlled, nobody, pleased or displeased, dares to threaten his hands while insurgent bands are in the field waiting and hoping.

Mrs. Stevenson Quadruplets.

KINGSTON (Can.), Aug. 13.—Yesterday Mrs. W. Stevenson of this city gave birth to quadruplets—two boys and two girls. Within an hour after birth one girl died. The remaining three are doing nicely, as is also the mother. The baby who has been so suddenly brought into prominence is a fourth child. The Hotchkiss and Suffolk Manufacturing company's steamer Columbian. The parents are in poor circumstances and were not prepared for such a number of babies. Neighbors worked their way last night and all day making necessary garments for the children.

HAS A FINE RECORD.

Charles Herbert Allen, Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

His Career in Congress and in Business—Some One of the Most Successful Private Citizens in the Country.

The simpler good fortune of Secretary Long in securing an assistant secretary of the navy who combines all the good points of his predecessor, although possessing a high professional degree, minus the many that possessed that rare quality of conspicuous good sense which permits his distinguished principal to trust him, as occasion requires, with the full responsibility of the naval administration in those critical times, has been amply in evidence. Charles Herbert Allen gives every promise of making as favorable an impression upon the naval service as for as personal popularity and fine administrative discharge of the office committed to his hands is called just as notable career in congress and in the state of Massachusetts, New record implies that Mr. Allen is 50 years old, but experienced naval officers declare that his work indicates a maturity altogether at variance with youthful looks.

Mr. Allen was born at Lowell April 15, 1848, and after the public school course there he went to Amherst, being graduated in 1868, three years later taking the A. M. degree there. From that time he was associated with his father for a number of years in the management of one of the greatest of American cotton mills. He took a fancy to politics and held various local offices, including membership in the Massachusetts house of representatives in 1881 and 1882, and in the Massachusetts senate in 1883. He came to the Forty-ninth congress, and was reelected to the Fiftieth, but declined subsequent nominations and assumed sole control of his large manufacturing interests. He was, however, reluctantly forced into the campaign for the governorship against William E. Russell in 1891, and from that time until he recently came to Secretary Long's assistance he was able to satisfy his own personal partiality for the undisturbed enjoyment of private life.

For this he possesses advantages open to few Americans, his home on the Merrimac being one of the most beautiful private estates in this country. Mr. Allen, whose tastes and temperament are exquisitely artistic, has created here marvels in the line of landscape gardening centered around the home of rare comforts. He is one of the most accomplished amateur photographers of the day, and as a producer of artistic prints has few equals at home or abroad. When in congress his camera was his constant companion on the floor of the house, and many of his snap shots of statesmen in repose were calculated to affect legislation in undreamed-of directions. He would frequently secure photographs of members conspicuously sleeping through a debate and offer to distribute gratuitously around the said congressmen's districts copies of the indisputable evidence of their watchful guardianship of constituents' interests.

It is a remarkable coincidence, says the New York Tribune, that the assistant secretary of the navy should have come from Lowell in two successive wars. During the civil war the position was held by Gustavus Vasse Fox, and during his brief term here, oddly enough, in the pew behind him at church used to sit the boy "Charlie" Allen, who at the time had no better aspiration than some day to be an agent on Mr. Fox. Recently as years later Mr. Allen secured his wish, and when he entered his office here he found that Mr. Roosevelt, his predecessor, had secured from some out-of-the-way corner of the navy department the original desk that was made for Mr. Fox for one of the timbers of the mess cruisers, an elaborate affair, with heavy carvings of guns, anchors, ships and rope-work ornamenting it. This is the desk that is used by the assistant secretary to-day.

Substituted Slaughter Houses.

The Danish government seems to be quite awake to the opportunities offered by the improved market for cattle in England and Germany, due to the restrictions on the imports of live cattle in those countries. In addition to the reduction of the export duty, the Danish government is about to establish substituted slaughter houses in order to facilitate the export of dead meat. The sum of $30,000 has already been furnished, and it is reported that a much larger sum will be used in hastening the establishment of plants to take advantage of the present market conditions.

FOUND A BRIDE AT LAST.

She Came High But Herman Has To Have Her.

The Lackawack correspondent of the Ellenville Press writes: Away up on the hills of Shokan dwells Louis Herman, a man of seventy years. He lost his wife about three months ago. Ever since he has searched for a partner to console him in his last years. At last he found a bride at Vernooy's Falls, at one Peter Markle's, who has two women, and as Herman wished for one, on Friday last he called on Mr. Markle and an bargain was struck. Herman gave Markle his dog, pair of shoes, hoop pole hatchet and a bushel basket for his wife. A number of young people serenaded them in cowboy style, demolishing everything before them. It was one of the noisiest events this place ever heard.

London Praise For Mr. Hay.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—With reference to reports that Colonel Hay, United State embassador to England, will succeed United States Secretary of State Day The Times says:

"It is of itself evidence of the strength of the entente which recent events have brought about. It is not long since Lowell, Phelps and Bayard were fiercely attacked in America because they made themselves too popular here. It is not so certain that it would be desirable to transfer Colonel Hay, but it is quite certain that this country and its government will be sorry to lose him, considering the delicate and difficult question coming up for settlement. It would be consoling, however, to know that the American foreign office was in the hands of a man who had learned from actual observation what are the necessities of England's foreign policy. His place will not be easy to fill. Among the names mentioned none is more justly respected throughout the United States than that of Mr. J. H. Choate, and no man would represent the United States better or be more welcome here."

England Blames Li Hung Chang.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—The foreign office, it is reported here, though the report as yet lacks confirmation, intends to demand that the Chinese government dismiss Prince Li Hung Chang from power, on the ground that he is responsible for the recent anti-British attitude of the tsung-li-yamen.

The foreign office, it is also asserted, has had under special consideration the question of seizing the Taku forts, on the gulf of Pechi-li, at the mouth of the Peking river, and the city of Tientsin, the port of Peking, in the event of China refusing to comply with the demand, holding all until compliance is assured.

Meanwhile the semi-official Journal de St. Petersburg deprecates the tone of the British press and says:

"Russia does not contemplate fresh acquisitions in the far east. Her only object is to preserve the advantages recently gained. The Russian government does not desire to injure the economic interests of Great Britain any more than those of any other power."

OFFICIAL CITY PAPER.

THE SEMI-WEEKLY MERCURY

The Boston Herald remarks that although the Hobson is not a very large body of water, the number of centralists who have been shipwrecked on it is appalling.

The Democratic organizations of Manhattan and Brooklyn, by refusing to accept patronage under the Ramapo bill, have strengthened their position, and can now fight that iniquitous measure in the courts with clean hands.

As a result of the experience gained during the war, a new drill regulation is to be prepared for our troops. It will consist of hours in three-quarter pound cans, hardtack in half pound sections, and the usual allowance of sugar, coffee, pepper and salt. Attempts to vary the campaigning ration on troops in camp were not followed, for when in this shape the men managed to cook an object so as to render the taste useless.

The news that comes from Santiago that it has been arranged that the Cuban insurgent army shall be paid by the United States and then disbanded and sent home is rather surprising. It is estimated that it will take $15,000,000 to pay off the men, most of whom have had no money since they entered the army. This seems like a needless obligation for this country to assume, but it may be the cheapest and surest way of getting rid of this undisciplined horde, who, after peace has been declared, could have made us a great deal of trouble and put us to much more than $15,000,000 expense if they chose to resist our plans for the administration of affairs in Cuba and were not satisfied with the scheme of government proposed.

Republican papers are much concerned as to the exact status of the campaign committee's of ten appointed by the Democratic State Committee, Saturday. They are especially worried lest it should supersede Chairman Danforth and the old executive committee and prefers to see all sorts of factional significance in the make up of the campaign committee. Democrats need not, however, be alarmed at the vaporings of their friends, the enemy. Chairman Danforth in selecting the special committee chose men who mean and will devote the necessary time to perfecting the organization of the Democratic party in all sections of the State, and no ulterior motives influenced or controlled the selection of the committee. It was created to work for Democratic success and may be depended on to keep that object steadily in view.

It was mighty good thing that Lincoln was captured before news of the armistice reached the Philippines. Our possession of the city will greatly simplify the situation, and when the commissioners meet to arrange the final terms of peace the less what the city is cost will put on end to much of the quibbling and scheming to which at an extent Spain's representatives will resort when the future of the Philippines, which is not a very open question by the protocol, comes up for final determination. More than this, every true American will feel a sense of personal gratification that the exhibition robbed Admiral Dewey of some of the fruits of the glorious victory with which he opened the war. He watched and waited in front of the city for many weary days and has borne himself with patience and dignity under very trying circumstances, and it would have been almost pitiful if none of the spoils that had crowned him before he planted the guns that were almost within the grasp fell to him, the last as well as the first through of the war is his, and if such a thing is possible he will be more of a popular idol than he has been since that memorable May Sunday when news of his great victory first flashed the country.

MANILA IS OURS.

The Report of Its Capture Confirmed.

AUGUSTIN DISMISSED.

Old Glory was Raised There on August 14th.

Events Are There Before the Commissioners and the Peoples Are Wide Apart on Important Points.

London, Aug. 16.—A special dispatch from Madrid says:

The surrender of Manila, on Saturday, by General Jaudenes, is officially announced.

The United States troops immediately occupied the city.

Berlin, Aug. 16.—Gen. Augustin, according to a dispatch from Hong Kong, dated yesterday, was dismissed from his post as Captain General of the Philippines, on August 6th. General Jaudenes was ordered to take command at Manila.

The dispatch adds: The Americans notified the authorities at Manila that the bombardment would commence at noon, on Aug. 9. The city surrendered on the 14th and the American flag was hoisted forthwith. The Spanish officers were allowed their freedom on parole and the military and administrative offices are to remain temporarily in the hands of the Spanish. The insurgents are to occupy outside of the town.

SPAIN LOSING HEART.

Has Come Not Know How to Use Conciliatory Measures.

Madrid, Aug. 16.—The government has been advised by the Spanish consul at Hong Kong of the surrender of Manila. It is not yet aware of the manner in which the surrender was effected.

El Liberal in discussing the eventuality of a combat between Great Britain and Russia, thinks it is a cause of fresh peril to Spain and urges that special preparations be made for the defense of the Balearic Islands and the coast towns of Andalusia. It says:

For three years we have sought to defend our honor and Spanish sovereignty in colonies. To-day we are threatened with greater danger. We have to defend our honor.

According to El Siempo, the organ of the conservatives, Senor Silvela, leader of that party, intends to block the government's policy.

The Queen Regent has personally thanked the French government for its good offices in obtaining peace, and has charged Senor Castillo, the Spanish Ambassador at Paris, to inform M. Delcasse, French Minister of Foreign Affairs, that Her Majesty has conferred upon him the Grand Cross of the Order of Carlos Third. Similar distinction is bestowed upon M. Patenotre, the French Ambassador at Madrid.

WAR OVER, NOW MURDER.

Shooting Crimes Follow on the Footsteps of the Announcement of Peace.

San Francisco, Aug. 16.—Jim Corbett's father, to-day, shot and killed his wife and then turned the weapon upon himself with fatal effect.

It is believed that the murder was demented. He has been in extremely poor health for some time. Death was instantaneous in both cases.

Asbury Park, N. J., Aug. 16.—Corbett was greatly shocked when he read a telegram from his brother, Harry, announcing the double tragedy. He broke down and wept like a child. He will stop training for the present and his fight with Hanley at Dublin may be postponed.

New York, Aug. 16.—A woman was murdered in a hotel at Grove street and Broadway some time, last night. Her body was found, this morning, the head beaten in, apparently with a piece of lead pipe. The woman went to the hotel with a man, last night, and they registered as man and wife. The hotel clerk says that they looked as if they were from the country. Some time during the night the man left. The police are receiving great credit about the case.

The murdered woman has been identified as Mrs. E. C. Reynolds, of No. 276 Ninth avenue, this city.

Lawrence, Pa., Aug. 16.—Mrs. Woods, wife of Richard Woods, who was murdered in bed on Saturday night by unknown burglars while her side was asleep by his side, committed suicide, last night, by drowning herself.

WHAT GET PAID.

The Government Will Not Pay Expenses of the Rebel Army.

Washington, Aug. 16.—Secretary Alger took occasion to deny the report current in Cuba of an agreement to disband the Cuban insurgents and for the United States to pay them off. The proposition would not be entertained by the government.

EVACUATION COMMISSIONERS.

The President Names the Commissioners to Have the Spanish Troops Out of Cuba and Porto Rico.

Washington, Aug. 16.—The President, today, appointed the commissions to adjust the evacuation of Cuba and Porto Rico.

For Cuba—Major General James H. Wade, Rear Admiral Wm. T. Sampson, Major General Matthew Butler.

For Porto Rico—Major General John R. Brooke, Rear Admiral Winfield S. Schley, Brigadier General Wm. M. Gordon.

DISBANDMENT AT HAND.

About 50,000 Volunteers to Be Returned to Civil Life.

Washington, Aug. 16.—An order will be issued, to-day, which approved by the Cabinet, for the mustering out of certain of about 50,000 volunteer troops. The troops to be mustered out will include all the volunteer cavalry and volunteer artillery in the United States at the present time, and a large number of infantry.

SECRETARY OF STATE NAY.

Washington, Aug. 16.—Ambassador Hay at London has accepted the office of Secretary of State.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES.

Washington, Aug. 16.—Senator Allison will not be a member of Hawaiian commission, owing to other important duties.

Saratoga, Aug. 16.—The Oliverio sailed, to-day, for Montauk Point, with two or three hundred sick aboard.

Rome, Aug. 16.—The Colombian government has settled the Cerruti claim with Italy, to the latter's satisfaction.

New York, Aug. 16.—The transport General Burnham, with Gen. Wade and staff on board, has arrived at Montauk Point.

SUBWAY PARKS FREE SHOW.

The Best Vaudeville Entertainment Given There Ever on the Island.

The vaudeville show at Subway Park, this week, is the best that Manager Baldwin has yet produced. The young woman who rides the pedestrian trail a mile "every hour," but she travels by train three hours to-night's performance. An excellent musical show was started. Fisk Nelson appeared in a little skit which seemed to please the audience, and later when he appeared behind a chair-house which could have made Buffy Johnson the cat envy, he came on to a regular storm of hot his applause. Dillon's character sketch was good.

Pay Your Taxes, To-morrow Noon.

The city clerk's office will be kept open from 12 to 1, to-morrow, for the collection of taxes. This is done for the accommodation of those so employed that they are unable to call during the regular hours.

A Frightened Horse Injures Himself.

A horse belonging to a farmer named Brann, of State Hill, became frightened while being led into Germain's blacksmith shop, to-day. It began to kick, badly injuring his hind legs. Dr. Beck is caring for his injuries.

GROWTH OF FLAX IN INDIA.

The Plant Is Reared Exclusively for the Seed and Not for Fiber.

Consul-General Patterson, at Calcutta, in a report to the department of state, notes a curious fact about flax growing, reports the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. He writes: "In answer to an inquiry from a Chicago firm relative to the quantity of flax produced and exported from India, I would say that flax is grown in India exclusively for the seed. In no part of the country in the fiber produced. Experiments have been made for many years with the same result, viz., that it is no proof that a plant can be made to yield a fiber because it can be grown in a country. Flax, hemp and china grass are admirable samples of this fact. The possible area of fiber production of any of these in India is extremely narrow. Hemp yields fiber in Russia and other countries and cannot be made to produce the necessities in India the very reverse is the case, except in a small portion of the Himalayas, where to yields admirable fiber and can succeed to speak of. While large areas of flax are cultivated in almost every part of India and Burmah, it is grown only for the seed, of which large quantities are exported, and not for fiber, and there is no flax exported from India."

BRAKEMAN'S SAD DEATH.

Robert J. Riley Caught His Foot in the Guard Rail and the Cars He Had Uncoupled Ran Over His Leg and Arm—Died Soon After Reaching Thrall Hospital.

A very unfortunate accident befel Brakeman Robert J. Riley, of the O. and W.'s night yard gang in this city about 2:50, this morning, by which his life was crushed out.

Two cars had been cut off for Grundy's switch, just south of the Wickham avenue crossing, by Riley's signal, and when he started to get out of harm's way his foot caught in the guard rail and he was thrown forward on his face.

He had no time to rise, and in a few seconds the wheels had reached him. His leg was crushed full length and the wheels passed over his arm. The train crew ran quickly to his aid. He was conscious and said: "My leg is off and my back is broken."

He soon relapsed into unconsciousness and remained in that state when taken to Thrall Hospital, where he died at 4:15 a. m.

Word had been wired to his father, James Riley, who lives at Bloomingburgh, who drove here in all haste, reaching here at 5 o'clock.

The deceased boarded with Frank Pease, No. 300 North street. He was a member of Ontario Hose Company. He was twenty-two years of age, and is survived by his father and one sister.

RIOTOUS TENNESSEE SOLDIERS.

The First New York's Enemies Tried to Lynch a Negro.

The Tennesseans in camp at the Presidio, who joined in the attack on the First Regiment, last week, were guilty of another more disgraceful outbreak, Monday. Two of them, while drinking in a saloon, quarreled with a negro, who struck one of the soldiers over the eye with brass knuckles, laying open his forehead. The soldiers retired to camp, rallied six hundred of their comrades, and set out to lynch the negro, who had taken refuge in his house near the reservation. The major in command of the Tennessee regiment protected the negro with a drawn revolver until a troop of the regular cavalry reached the scene and dispersed the rioters.

BLOOMINGBURGH'S PARADE.

Great Interest in the Annual Event Which Occurred There, To-day.

The annual coaching parade at Bloomingburgh, occurred, to-day. Extensive preparations had been made for the event, and many from this city were in attendance. The awarding of prizes in the various class was very wisely delegated to E. D. C. Crane, of the Press, M. H. Brown, of the Times and George H. Thompson, of the Argus.

The O. and W. Silver Band which plays in the parade started out in a decorated side seated wagon drawn by three horses.

The contestants in the bicycle road race, in connection with the day, started from Dineen's Globe Hotel at 11 o'clock. Seven out of the ten entries appeared when time was called, Mort Hulse, of this city; Clarence Moore, of Bloomingburgh, and Will Bodine not coming to the scratch.

The competitors and their positions in stating, as lined up by Charles L. Swezy, were:

Joe Grant, Middletown, 2 minutes.
J. E. Armstrong, Howells, 2 minutes.
Arthur Jones, New York, 1 minute.
Henry Still, Middletown, 1 minute.
H. L. Brown, Middletown, 30 seconds.
J. E. Armstrong, Sufferns, Rockland wheelman, 30 seconds.
Walter Weeks, scratch.

All of the men got away in good shape, but the impression seemed to prevail that Grant had too much of a handicap, and that he had the best chance of winning.

HENRY STILL WON.

A telephone message received at noon announced the winners:

1—Henry Still, time 21¼ minutes.
2—Joseph Grant, time 21½ minutes.
3—W. Lee Brown, time 23½ minutes.

Walter Weeks finished third, but was disqualified because he was paced by a tandem. He met with a bad fall going down the Bloomingburgh sand-hill, and received bruises and scratches. Two of the competitors were also scratched badly on the bridge at the mill.

A later report says that Weeks was not disqualified.

It is estimated that at least 3,000 people took in the parade. There were one hundred rigs in line and the prizes were awarded as follows:

Best decorated double rig—J. F. Bennett, first; J. F. Decker, second; Grover Chapman, third. Honorable mention, Sha-wan-ga Lodge, A. C. B. King.

Best decorated single rig—Chas. Clapham, first; Ed. Mills, second, and D. D. Low, of Cedar Grove Farm, third; honorable mention, W. A. Ellis and W. W. Winter.

The most grotesque rig—Fred Shorter, first; Milo Seeger, second; honorable mention, Beyea Farm and Sunny Crest Farm.

MAY NOT STAY LONG.

First Regiment to Be Replaced by Regulars. But May Go to Manila.

A dispatch states that the War Department will soon detail one of the regiments of the regular army to take the permanent station at Honolulu. It is the intention to keep the 1st New York Volunteers in Hawaii only a short time, for Honolulu will become a regular military post and at least a full regiment of regular infantry, some artillery and possibly two or three troops of cavalry will form the garrison.

When the 1st New York is withdrawn the regiment may be brought back to the United States or it may be sent to Manila, depending on circumstances at the time.

MADE A LOT OF MONEY.

The Shell, Pin and Wheel Manipulators Outside the Race Track Found Many Visitors.

As story after story leaks out concerning the experiences of those who tried to beat the shell, pin and wheel games outside the entrance to the race track, it is evident that the manipulators of the games did a good week's business in spite of the bad weather. These visitors were of all kinds,—business men, politicians, farmers and not one of those who tried it was smart enough to "beat the fellows at their own game."

Badly Hurt, But Couldn't Tell How It Happened.

Dominick White, aged forty years, was found between the east and west bound tracks at Hancock, Sunday morning, with his right arm and left foot badly crushed. He was unable to tell how he received his injuries, but the supposition is that he fell or jumped from an east bound train and rolled under the west bound train which was passing at the time. He was taken to the home of his sister, at Hancock, and the injured limbs amputated.

There May Be a Rude Awakening.

The Honolulu Daily Independent furnishes its readers with this interesting information: "The New York Regiment which will be stationed here is composed of the 'best' boys from Gotham. Additional room in Sunday schools and churches should be made at once, and the price of bananas and ice water raised. The New York First is 'missionary'—pelu pahe."

IF [illegible]

AT LAST.

[illegible]

Perhaps I may get unburdened
Of the [illegible]
Why I must still dwell
Perhaps I'll die about sweet,
[illegible]
Then I'll be at the Master's feet
And love Him all in all.

Forgive us only enough and wait
Till we come home
Many precious gifts the Father we grant
We may not longed to behold
Perhaps it is only thus the cross
Must be the light which Shall lead for all the pain and loss
The grief, separating skills.

Be brave, my precious, fainting soul,
Keep back the blinding tears,
For soon the far behind shall roll
The centuries of years;
Soon, in that glad-eyed morning land,
When shadows all have passed,
My heart, perhaps, shall understand,
Shall understand at last.

In the Chamber of Cats

"THERE'S only one reason I have to live this week," said Mrs. Blackstone. "Only one, and that's enough, goodness knows it!"

"The cats?" inquired Mr. Blackstone.

"The darned cats!" rejoined his wife with vindictive emphasis.

"I'll tell him about the cats when I write," said Mr. Blackstone. He did. Here is the letter:

"Dear Regulus.—Of course, we want you at once, and, of course, there is plenty of room, though it isn't the best kind of room, the good will count. You must leave one day to be married and take us the home between your own reception and that when you leave the city. Our guest chamber is the best room of all at the rear. It is the biggest and the lightest, but we don't use it to sleep in because of the cats. The professional cat casting ground for the borough of Manhattan is under the window. Why don't we put 'em? Where can they go when the time comes to bewail his death. So we evacuated the room for cats and live in the place the hundred cats the guest chamber. There isn't room before you come to take the bedsteads down and transform them. It takes ten days to do that, including the time spent in hospital.

"So if you can stand the cats come, and we hope you will run your risk. Sincerely,

"WILLIAM BLACKSTONE.

"To Hon. Regulus McShane, District Attorney's Office, —— County, N. Y."

Hon. Regulus McShane arrived on a Saturday evening, and was conducted to his room. There were windows on two sides of the room. The bed ran obliquely into the room between them. On each of the unwindowed sides was a closet door. One closet led through to the bedroom of the Blackstones. It contained a fine washstand and the family medicine shelves. The shelves of the other closet were piled high with discarded shoes, empty mineral water bottles, and fragments of broken furniture.

"There!" said Mr. Blackstone, as he opened the door of this closet and pointed with pride to the display on the shelves. "That is your only relief from cats. That is the magazine. When they begin to howl I unbolt them. Get the Spanish treatment. Don't hit. If you do they'll only make twice as much noise."

The district attorney smiled grimly.

"I rather think I'll stay awake for fear I shouldn't wake up when they begin to sing."

Then he went out and showed Mrs. Blackstone his new shoes. They were wonderful shoes. Very large they were, because his feet were large, and the larger because the soles flared out beyond the uppers. They were yellow as a quarantine flag and shone with the soft radiance of the midday sun.

"I wish you would tell me," the lawyer said, plaintively, to Mrs Blackstone, "what you really and honestly think of them. I'm feeling a little doubtful about them myself."

"Why?" asked the young woman, with magnificent innocence. "I don't see why."

"Well, you know," he explained, "I bought them in Syracuse. I had to stop over an hour and a half there between trains. The man who sold them to me told me that every body in New York was wild over that breed of shoe—or would be as soon as enough of them were sold here to begin to supply the demand. I don't see much to go wild over about them."

"Oh, don't you?" said Mrs Blackstone, increasing the proportion of the innocence in her utterance. "I do."

Mr Blackstone retired carelessly behind a door jamb and shook his fist at her. But the district attorney was too much pleased with her comment to consider too closely.

"I'm greatly relieved," he said with a sigh of relief that proved his sincerity. "I am, indeed. You see, they're the only pair I have with me. The ones I left at Syracuse weren't worth saving. And, besides, there wasn't any room for them in my bag."

Mrs. Blackstone's lips parted as if to utter more innocent comment.

"Don't you think, my dear," her husband put in, hastily, "don't you think it is time to let the weary traveler within our flat go to the chamber of cats? You text to bed and I'll take Regulus and show him what beautiful decorations there are inside the refrigerator."

She went her way and they went theirs. So well did the up-country district attorney appreciate the refrigerator that it was near midnight when he parted with his host at the door of the chamber of cats. As they passed her door Mrs Blackstone noticed that the district attorney's foot seemed to drag a little.

"Poor thing," she said, to herself, as she winked solemnly at her pillow. "He is tired. Perhaps he can't help dragging his feet, the responsibility of carrying those lovely shoes is heavy—heavy—"

Many a heartrending story and woeful tale could be told by a "pair of well worn shoes." In pointing a moral and adorning a tale with truth for an illustration.

As the dawn [illegible]

"If you can, old man, you better undress in the dark. The compliments were up here. We would have put in curtains, but if we had you couldn't have got at the coats."

It was perhaps an hour later when Mrs. Blackstone awoke. The night was very still. She wondered what had called her. In a moment she knew.

"Yo'-yo'-wow!" came a challenge from a half a block away. "Yo'-yo'-ow!"

"Ow-wow-wow!" came the answer from under the back window.

"Will," said Mrs. Blackstone, hoarsely, to the next pillow. "Will, wake up! They're coming!" She sat up and clapped her hands softly in her glee.

"Lemme know when they get here," mumbled Blackstone, as he dug his head into the pillow again. Mrs. Blackstone sat up and listened.

"Yo-yo-wow!" The challenger was drawing nearer. Not one, but three voices answered him. For a moment as they converged, all was silent. Then came a masterly battle cry! It was like that of a six months' infant who has swallowed his rubber pin.

"Will!" said Mrs. Blackstone. "Wake up. They've come!" He sat up and rubbed his eyes.

In the next room they heard the bump and the pounding of bare feet on the floor. They heard a door open and the clinking of glass.

"Gentlemen, what," whispered Mrs. Blackstone. "I'll [illegible] that you could hear things in that room so clearly."

"It's a very still night," her husband replied [illegible].

The footsteps moved softly across the room again. "Glug-glug!" The fragrance of a bottle drifted on the hot surface of the yard. This noise had not died away before there arose the long wail of the overtaxed to cat bottle.

"W-o-o-o-o-o-o-o-ow-wow!"

Softly cautious footsteps crossed the room again. Again a bottle broke and contented. Again rose the wail of woe.

There was nothing cautious about the footsteps this time. Instead of the clink of bottles heavy boot soles clattered together. The cats scattered in gathering consolation intelligent that an armed was being collected.

Swat! Bang! Biff! Swat! Boom! "Yi-i-i, wiawow!" yowled a victim.

"Thank the Lord," shouted Hon Mr. McShane. "Whoop!"

Boom—slam—smash—slap—biff!

"There, by Hades!" they heard Mr. McShane mutter. The silence of Sunday morning settled down again.

The Blackstones slept righteously into daylight. But not so late as they had intended. At about the time folks up the state go out to feed the stock before preparing for church, there came a rapping at their bedroom door.

"Bill! Say, Bill!" said a worried voice.

"Wassermat?" asked Mr. Blackstone.

"Did you send anybody into my room to take my shoes out and clean them?" asked Mr. McShane.

"No," responded Mr. Blackstone. "What's up?"

"They're gone, that's all," was the pathetically answer. "I put them in the closet when I went to bed, the one that isn't the magazine, you know, so that in the excitement of battle I wouldn't get mixed up and throw them. And now they're gone."

Mrs. Blackstone slipped out of bed and gingerly opened the door of the [illegible] closet that connected the two rooms.

"If he put them in here," she said, peering in the darkness, "they certainly have been." She opened the door a little wider and shrieked. Her husband was beside her in an instant.

"Look!" she cried, pointing into the closet. "Look!"

"For goodness' sake, you people," said a wondering voice in the hall. "What's the matter?"

The voice of Blackstone answered him, enumerating slowly and solemnly and ordering a catalogue of things.

"One quart bottle of mucilage, one quart bottle of red ink, one half-gallon jug of whisky, one bottle of Pond's extract, one box of dry plates, two bottles of developer, one large bottle of lime water—"

"One pair russets, one pair bicycle shoes," Mrs. Blackstone took up the list. "The skirt frame. Your big shoes, your patent leathers, your winter shoes—"

"Gone, all gone!" they said, in chorus.

"Have you found my shoes yet?" asked a voice from the hall.

"Your shoes!" howled Mr. Blackstone. "You good-for-nothing-but-chewing-bait, steam snow-plows. Oh you—"

"William!" said Mrs. Blackstone.

Her husband strode out into the hall. He took his guest by the scruff of the neck and led him to the window. There in the area they looked down upon such an ink-spattered gummy wreck as seldom man is privileged to look upon. On the stone steps lay one dead cat and by his side a huge pillow, gore-stained dynamos beat. The other rested under the largest fragment of the ink bottle.

"I must have got into the wrong closet after all," said Hon. Mr. Shane, after awhile. "And they cost eight."

He even went against him by declaring the next day because he had to wait for Blackstone to go downtown, his own foot clad in tennis shoes, and order a full complement of shoes sent to the house "for a gentleman with the biggest feet on earth." But Blackstone was unfeeling enough to say he didn't care anything [illegible]

ON THE TOP OF THE TOWER.

The strength of many who frequented the race track last week was exhausted by the climb up Goshen square the played every day. They were of low or form and frightened them the average Goshen dude, and their language was of a more intelligent character. They played right along with the white champs who formed part of the outside entertainment on the closing and generally held their own.

But one in fifty Middletown people know how the game of craps is played. The familiar game of box-cover dice called such "outs seven" is about as much as the average rube knows about it. The crap experts of this neighborhood, since that the game is played with two dice. Each man in the game puts up five or ten cents and sometimes the individual stakes are one dollar each. The dice are thrown by the man who starts the game. If he throws seven, when the numbers on the dice are counted, he wins and the putting up is repeated and he again throws the dice and so on. If the thrower counts up, say, six, he must throw another six before he throws seven. If he fails he gives each one of the other players as much as each had put in the stakes. Jesse having thrown a number all the other players begin to yell "come seven." When he fails the next man throws the dice.

Shenge Powelson, who has represented a desire to do a little newspaper work in Orange in this city, made his debut as a signed article writer in Sunday's New York Herald. The article was descriptive of a trip of the St. Paul with troops for Cuba, and it was interesting in facts and coloured by incidents which must have brought smiles to all who read it.

"What struck me as an innovation on the race grounds, this year," said a well known Middletowner, Monday, "was the number of heavy women present who bet on the races. They sent their money into the pool boxes by aquaintances, and in odd instances they ventured into the betting precincts themselves. I saw several women, flashily dressed, but apparently not of the street, walk boldly up to the cashier and cash in winning tickets. The women nearly always won, probably because their intimates were on the inside."

Talking about betting, the local talent has become pretty thoroughly convinced that it cannot win. When the boys who have been visiting race tracks in the daily and sporting papers for years go down to the pool box they bet on a horse's muzzle and as a rule they would doubtless make an excellent showing. Neither does second a race track are as keen as close-mouthed professional ball players. Two drivers, who had a race on last week's programme well in hand, put up a job and the favorite was badly beaten. Later, three men, in broad daylight, at the pool box, in the presence of the indignant "workers" they had fleeced, divided up a big stack of pool tickets and each cashed in his share.

Betting is what draws the crowds of men to the tracks, however. No betting would mean few men. They are a well the regular army of heavy men and women which swings around the circuit, and that holds their attention, too. Betting, or the gambling on the fascinating wheel, holds their attention and sends them to their homes thinking and talking for only of the bets or plays made. This is especially true of the professionals. They tramped through King street after the races each night, oblivious to the glitter of the newspaper buttons when news of national importance was posted, and no one ever saw one of them with a newspaper in his hand.

A Very Accommodating Justice.
From the Port Jervis Union.

Judge Norris says that he will convene court this week to give plaintiffs and defendants in law suits a chance to attend the home runs and base ball games.

"I was weak and all run down, although I did not have any special disease. Soon after I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I found it was helping me and after taking a few bottles I was quite strong. I recommend this medicine to others afflicted as I was." Mrs. LOUISA SPENCER, Acra, N. Y.

FRED ENGLAND'S EXPERIENCE.

Ex-Sheriff Green and Deputy Nothing Daily—Express Riley Endives a Man.

George T. Bryant has received an interesting letter from Fred H. England, who is at Santiago. It is in part as follows:

I will try to explain what it is like here. Overcoats, of course, all gone, going through the air. That shows some of the heat we have. Mosquitoes are not as good natured as the colored people.

The battle of El Caney was the hottest one I was in. I have told my bit of war, but it is very nice to have the experience. We have to sleep on the ground, as a matter of course.

If the Spaniards had not run out of ammunition we might have been fighting them yet. The Gatlin battalion were all gone and empty. We got no grub at times, but as we advanced we found many things, but as we advanced we found many things, but as we advanced we found many things
